HISTORY

Background Information

The Domnesti Children's home opened its doors to the first group of boys in May 1993. The old house in Domnesti, where the first boys staid, was used for some years while a larger modern house was built in the village by Life For All foundation from Switzerland.

The new house was completed in September 1996, which coincided with the arrival of six more boys at the request of the Government of Romania.

September 15th 2008, all boys which had not yet moved from Domnesti Home moved to Bucharest where AMURT has two apartments.

In the apartments the integration of the boys into society continued. Every month there were positive steps taken to towards this goal. Through this process, AMURT gains experience in this area of readapting and integration which were employed in future social integration service work with young people.

A Model To Follow

In the last quarter of 1994 the Romanian Ministry of Education selected Childrenâ Home Domnesti to be visited by participants of the international conference of IFEC (International Federation of Educational Communities) as it was considered an exemplary institution in Romania.

Towards Financial Self-sufficiency

It is now our intention to move towards greater financial self-sufficiency for the project. In order for the next phase to proceed the day to day needs of the children must first be guaranteed for the medium term. It is only with your support that we can continue to help the children of Romania.

Where there was no hope of any kind of future for 12 children in 1993, 5 years later their horizons have broadened; they are ready to take their place as respectable members of our Society. We would like to continue to broaden the horizons of little children in Romania.

Purchase a large tract of land in order to grow more fruits and vegetables. The surplus introduction will also be another income generating opportunity.

October 2009

In the efforts to prepare these young people for adulthood, AMURT and AMURTEL developed a transitional program called "Vistara". This program encourages self-sufficiency by using a positive youth development approach when exercising day-to-day tasks in learning practical life and work skills – whether it is learning to change a vacuum cleaner bag, exploring the world of work, or becoming a better listener.

With the success of this program and building on the experience of transitioning young people towards social integration, in October 2009, AMURT Romania opened one new project in partnership with the local public institution, to address the needs of homeless youth.

EVENTS

Learning to design and construct - At the Centre, each opportunity is made to an event or activity regardless if caused by inspiration or problem. This functionality makes the Centre dynamic and challenging as similar as the real life.

Eight Bikes and Picnic - Ten days ago the snow was still on the ground. When the opportunity came, the Domnesti boys went for picnic.

Emergency and Safety Skills - Both the beneficiaries and the staff of AMURT learned the basics of First Aid.

Strategical Snow-ball War Game - This is not an online snow-boll game you find in Google search.

HISTORY / WHAT DOES AMURT DO?

AMURT Romania (Asociatia de Ajutor Caritabil AMURT) was registered in Romania in 1990 as non-profit NGO.

In 1993 AMURT Romania started one small scale family-style children's home in Domnesti village near Bucharest, to provide an alternative to the massive and overcrowded State institutions.

The small children that arrived have since grown up and were integrated, in 2008, to two apartments in Bucharest owned by AMURT. Most of them have since found their own places and stable jobs.
